M. de Lieusapa has obtained a victory on the question of the Panama Canal looks. The great engineer has always insisted that they were unnecessary and that they would delay the passage of vessels, and this opinion has been confirmed by M. Bouquet de la Grye, the acknowledged highest authority on such questions. In a report to the Academy of Sciences on the subject he remarks that no difference of level can exist between the Atlantic and the Proffic, and that nature placed no locks in the Strait of Marellan. The movement of the tides, he holds, should be rather an advantage than otherwise in the Panama Canal, and the lock scheme should, therefore, be abandoned. The Academy have expressed their unanimous approval of the report.

THE INDICTMENT OF THE EUCALYPTUS.

Some years ago the eucalyptus or gum tree of Australia was introduced in this state (California). The fame of the wonders which wrought in malarial districts had preceded It has in none of the properties originally claimed for it disappointed its aponsors. It grows with astonishing rapidity and by sending out multitudinous roots quickly dries the soil where it is planted. It rises to great height, has thick foliage and is probably the best wind break that we have. Set out in thick rows against the usual or prevailing atmospheric currents, it will largely modify climatic conditions. But nothing more strange about it than the tenacity with which it clings to life. Strip it of bark and it will, in a short time, repair the damage, and flourish as if nothing had bappened. Cut it off ten feet from the ground. when it has attained a diameter of a foot leaving nothing standing but a wooden pillar, and it will, in a month or two at the proper season, send forth shoots and crown itself with new and thicker branches.
